IV. APPLIED ACCOUNTING POLICIES, ACCOUNTING ESTIMATES AND RELEVANT REGULATIONS1. Principles for recording cash and cash equivalents

Cash includes cash on hand, demand deposit.

Cash equivalents are short-term investments with a maturity of three months or less from the date of investment, which are readily convertible into a known amount of cash and subject to an insignificant risk of changes in value at the end of the accounting period.

Cash and cash equivalents that are subject to restrictions on the Company's use are not presented under this item but are presented under other current assets.

2. Principles for accounting financial investmentsHeld-to-maturity investments

Held-to-maturity investments comprise term deposits that the Company has the intention and ability to hold until maturity in order to earn interest income. These investments do not include financial instruments held for trading purposes. At the end of the accounting period, investments are classified as current or non-current assets based on the remaining period to maturity.

Interest income is recognized as finance income on an accrual basis, based on the holding period and the effective interest rate. Interest received in advance is allocated over the relevant periods, while interest received in arrears or periodically is recognized in the period in which it accrues. Upon maturity or early liquidation, the difference between the amount recovered and the carrying amount, after deducting any provision and related costs, is recognized in financial operating results for the period.

Financial investments in subsidiaries, associates

Investment in subsidiaries represents the value of direct investments in entities with separate legal status and independent accounting over which the Company has control. Control is established when the Company owns more than 50% of the voting rights or has the power to govern the financial and operating policies of the investee so as to obtain economic benefits from its activities. The determination of control is based on the substance of the relationship. An investee is classified as a subsidiary even if the Company's ownership interest is less than 50% when the Company has de facto control, and vice versa.

An associate is an entity over which the Company has significant influence but does not have control. Significant influence is generally evidenced by holding between 20% and less than 50% of the voting rights or having the ability to participate in decisions regarding the financial and operating policies of the investee.

2. Principles for accounting financial investments (cont.)

Investments in subsidiaries, joint ventures and associates are initially recognised at cost, comprising the purchase consideration and directly attributable transaction costs. Dividends and profits arising after the acquisition date are recognised as finance income. Where dividends are received in the form of shares, the Company records only the additional number of shares received and does not recognise any increase in the carrying amount of the investment.

The assessment of control and significant influence is based on the substance of the underlying arrangements as at the reporting date and is not affected by any intention or plan to dispose of the investment in the future. Where control or significant influence is restricted by legal, contractual or other governance arrangements, the Company assesses the substance of such restrictions in determining the appropriate classification of the investment. When the Company ceases to have control or significant influence over an investee, the investment is derecognised accordingly. Any difference between the proceeds received and the carrying amount of the investment is recognised in the results of financial activities for the period.

At the end of the reporting period, the Company assesses whether there is any indication of impairment of its investments in subsidiaries, joint ventures and associates based on objective evidence and all available information, including accumulated losses, impairment of assets, or the recoverability of the investee's net assets. For listed investments, fair value is determined based on the closing market price as at the end of the reporting period. An allowance for impairment is recognised when the recoverable amount of an investment is lower than its carrying amount. The recoverable amount is determined based on the investment's fair value, where such value can be reliably determined, or the net asset value of the investee, taking into account its financial position, operating results and ability to generate future cash flows. The allowance for impairment is recognised as a finance cost for the period and is reversed when the circumstances giving rise to the impairment no longer exist.

The allowance for impairment of investments in subsidiaries, joint ventures and associates is determined based on the consolidated financial statements of the investee. Where the investee is a standalone entity with no subsidiaries, the allowance for impairment is determined based on the separate financial statements of the investee.

3. Principles for recording receivables

Receivables represent the Company's rights to receive cash or economic benefits from counterparties arising from completed transactions. Receivables are initially recognised at cost and are monitored in detail by counterparties and payment terms. At the end of the accounting period, receivables are presented at cost less any allowance for doubtful debts (if any).

Receivables are classified as short-term or long-term based on the nature of the receivables and the expected collection period of no more than or more than 12 months from the end of the accounting period.

The Company's receivables include:

Trade receivables represent receivables arising from provision of services, where the collection of cash is only subject to the passage of time.

Other receivables comprise amounts arising outside the Company's sales activities, provision of services and internal relationships, including dividends and profits receivable in cash, interest receivable on loans and other receivables in accordance with applicable regulations. For individually material other receivables, the Company provides detailed monitoring and disclosure of the nature of the transactions, amounts, dates of occurrence, repayment/collection terms, overdue status (if any), and related terms and conditions in accordance with applicable regulations.

Allowance for doubtful debts: The Company assesses the recoverability of receivables based on objective evidence, including the overdue status of receivables, the financial capacity of debtors and other indicators of deterioration in the ability to repay. An allowance is recognised for overdue receivables or receivables that are not yet due but for which there is evidence indicating that part or all of the outstanding amount may not be recoverable. The amount of allowance is determined based on the overdue period or the estimated unrecoverable amount of each receivable in accordance with applicable regulations. The allowance is recognised as an administrative expense for the period. The allowance is reversed when the required allowance is lower than the existing allowance balance recorded in the accounting books.

4. Principles for recording inventories

Inventories are recognised at cost, comprising purchase costs, and other directly attributable costs incurred to bring the inventories to their present location and condition, after deducting discounts and rebates. At the end of the accounting period, inventories are presented at the lower of cost and net realisable value.

Raw materials are recognised at cost, comprising purchase price and directly attributable costs incurred to bring the materials to the Company's warehouse.

- Work in progress: comprises direct materials, direct labor, and manufacturing overhead costs incurred during the construction of water supply and sewerage projects.

Method of calculating inventories' value: Weighted average method. This method is applied consistently between accounting periods.

Method of accounting for the inventories: Perpetual method, accordingly, inventory transactions, including receipts, issues and balances, are recorded regularly and continuously in the accounting records.

Method of making provision for decline in value of inventories: Provision for decline in value of inventories is made when the net realisable value of inventories is lower than their original cost. Net realisable value is determined based on the estimated selling price in the ordinary course of business less estimated costs to complete the products and estimated costs necessary to make the sale. The provision is recognised in cost of goods sold during the period. The provision is made and reversed based on the comparison between the required provision amount and the provision balance already recognised.

5. Principles for recording fixed assets and construction in progress5.1. Tangible fixed assets

Tangible fixed assets are physical assets held by the Company for use in its production and business activities, which satisfy all recognition criteria prescribed by prevailing regulations, including: it is probable that future economic benefits associated with the assets will flow to the Company, the cost of the assets can be measured reliably, the assets have a useful life of more than one year and meet the value threshold prescribed by prevailing regulations.

Tangible fixed assets are stated at original cost less accumulated depreciation. The initial cost of a tangible fixed asset comprises all expenditures of bringing the asset to its working condition and location for its intended use. The expenditures incurred after initial recognition are only capitalized as an additional cost of tangible fixed assets when they have resulted in an increase in the future economic benefits expected to be obtained from the use of those tangible fixed assets. The expenditures which do not meet the above conditions are charged to the expenses in the period.

When tangible fixed assets are sold or disposed, their cost and accumulated depreciation are derecognised, and any resulting gain or loss arising from the disposal is recognised in income or expenses during the period.

Depending on the source of acquisition, the cost of tangible fixed assets is determined as follows:

The cost of purchased tangible fixed assets comprises the purchase price after deducting trade discounts and rebates, non-refundable taxes arising from the acquisition of the fixed assets, and directly attributable costs incurred to bring the assets to the location and condition necessary for them to be capable of operating in the manner intended by the Company, such as site preparation costs, transportation costs, loading and unloading costs, installation costs, testing and commissioning costs and other related costs. For assets that are real estate properties, the value of land use rights and the value of assets attached to land are determined and recognised separately in accordance with applicable laws.

The cost of self-constructed tangible fixed assets comprises the final approved settlement value of the construction project or the actual production cost, together with directly attributable costs incurred to bring the assets to the location and condition necessary for them to be capable of operating as intended; registration fees (if any) and directly attributable borrowing costs are capitalised in accordance with applicable regulations. Where assets have been put into use but the final settlement has not yet been approved, their cost is recognised based on the provisional estimated amount and adjusted upon final settlement. Internal profits and unreasonable costs or costs exceeding normal levels are not included in the cost of the assets.

5.2. Intangible fixed assets

Intangible fixed assets are assets without physical substance held by the Company for use in production and business activities, provision of services or leasing purposes, which satisfy the recognition criteria prescribed by applicable regulations.

Intangible fixed assets are stated at cost less accumulated amortisation. The cost of an intangible fixed asset represents all expenditures incurred by the Company to acquire the asset up to the time when it is brought to the location and condition necessary for it to be capable of operating in the manner intended by the Company. Subsequent expenditures incurred after initial recognition are recognised as expenses in the period, unless such expenditures increase the future economic benefits expected to be obtained from the asset and can be measured reliably, in which case they are capitalised as part of the cost of the intangible fixed asset.

Depending on the source of acquisition, the cost of intangible fixed assets is determined as follows:

The cost of intangible fixed assets acquired separately comprises the purchase price after deducting trade discounts or rebates, non-refundable taxes and directly attributable costs incurred to bring the assets to the location and condition necessary for them to be capable of operating in the manner intended by the Company;

Where the intangible fixed asset is a land use right, its cost is the amount paid by the Company to obtain the lawful land use right, including payments made to organisations or individuals for transfer of land use rights, compensation costs, site clearance costs, land levelling costs, registration fees and other related costs, or the value agreed by the contributing parties. The determination of land use rights as intangible fixed assets shall comply with applicable laws and regulations governing the management, use and depreciation of fixed assets.

Where the intangible fixed asset is computer software, its cost comprises all costs incurred by the Company up to the date the software is put into use.

5.3. Principles for recording construction in progress

Construction in progress comprises costs incurred for capital construction investment projects, including acquisition, new construction, repair, maintenance, upgrading and renovation of fixed assets, and the settlement of investment costs. Capital construction activities may be carried out under a contracting arrangement or by the Company itself. In the case of self-execution, this account reflects all costs incurred during the construction and repair process in accordance with applicable laws and regulations. Subsequent expenditures incurred after initial recognition that increase the capacity or extend the useful life of fixed assets are capitalised as part of the cost of the assets.

Where a project has been completed and put into use but the final settlement has not yet been approved, the Company recognises the fixed assets at the provisional estimated cost and depreciates the assets accordingly, and subsequently adjusts the cost based on the approved final settlement value. Where a project is cancelled or impairment losses arise, the Company performs disposal activities and recovers the related costs; any difference is recognised as other expenses or allocated to the responsible parties for recovery.

5.4. Method of depreciating and amortizing fixed assets, construction in progress

Fixed assets used in production and business activities are depreciated in accordance with applicable regulations. Depreciation expenses are recognised in production and business expenses during the period.

The Company applies depreciation methods for tangible fixed assets in accordance with prevailing regulations. The straight-line method is applied to allocate the depreciable amount of assets evenly over their useful lives. The depreciation periods are determined in accordance with the prescribed range of the Ministry of Finance and the Company's actual conditions of use.

The estimated useful life for assets is as follows:

Buildings and structures	4 - 23 years
Machinery and equipment	3 - 11 years
Transportation and facilities	5 - 29 years
Office equipment	3 - 09 years
Intangible fixed assets	3 years

Land use rights with an indefinite term are recognized at cost and are not depreciated.

6. Principles for recording deferred expenses

Deferred expenses are all expenses that actually incurred but relate to the operating result of several accounting periods, which are repair, installation and relocation expenses, tools and supplies and other expenses.

Deferred expenses are amortized to production and operating expenses on a straight-line basis over the estimated periods during which the related economic benefits are expected to be realized. The amortization period for each deferred expense is determined based on the nature of the expenditure, the contractual term, or its estimated useful life, as follows:

Tools and equipment are amortized over their estimated useful lives.

Repair, installation, and relocation costs are amortized up to the next scheduled repair period.

7. Principles for recording liabilities

Liabilities are recognised when the Company has a present obligation arising from past transactions or events and settlement of such obligation is expected to result in an outflow of the Company's economic resources. Liabilities are recognised when the obligation is probable to arise and the amount can be measured reliably.

At the end of the accounting period, liabilities are classified as short-term or long-term based on the remaining settlement period of the obligations in accordance with prevailing accounting standards and regulations.

Payables shall be monitored in detail by creditor, payment due date, currency of settlement and other relevant information as required for the Company's management purposes, in accordance with the following principles:

Trade payables represent the Company's obligations to pay suppliers for goods and services purchased and other related parties in accordance with contractual arrangements. NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS*For the first 6 months of the year 2026Unit: VND9. Principles for recording dividends and profit distributions payable Dividends and profit distributions payable reflect the amount of dividends and profits that the Company is obligated to pay to shareholders in cash or other assets in accordance with resolutions or decisions on profit distribution and applicable laws and regulations. The accrual of expenses must be based on reasonable and reliable grounds and calculated appropriately in accordance with the estimated actual expenses to be incurred.

Accrued expenses include items such as accrued interest expenses, and other accrued expenses related to the enterprise's production and business activities, excluding provisions for liabilities.

11. Principles for recording provisions for liabilities

Provisions for liabilities reflect the Company's present obligations arising from past events, for which the Company has an obligation to settle in the future and the amount of such obligations can be reliably estimated.

A provision for liabilities is recognized when all of the following conditions are simultaneously satisfied: the Company has a present obligation arising from a past event; settlement of the obligation is likely to result in an outflow of economic benefits; and the amount of the obligation can be reliably estimated.

Provisions for liabilities are recognized at the best estimate of the costs required to settle the obligation at the date of preparation of the financial statements and are reviewed and adjusted at each accounting period to reflect the most current actual estimated amount. Provisions are only used to offset costs directly related to the recognized obligations. The Company does not recognize provisions for future operating losses, except where contracts are onerous in accordance with applicable regulations.

12. Principles for recording Science and Technology Development Fund

The enterprise's Science and Technology Development Fund is used in accordance with the provisions of laws and regulations on science, technology, and innovation. 14. Principles for recording borrowing costs

Borrowing costs include interest expenses and other costs directly attributable* to the Company's borrowings. Borrowing costs are recognized as finance expenses in the period when incurred, except for borrowing costs directly attributable to the construction or production of qualifying assets under construction or in progress that meet the capitalization criteria, which are capitalized into the cost of such assets when the conditions prescribed in Accounting Standard No. 16 "Borrowing Costs" are satisfied.

In the case where the Company prepares consolidated financial statements, profit distribution is based on the undistributed after-tax profits available for distribution to owners after considering the Company's financial position, solvency, and capital requirements for the production and business activities of the Company and its subsidiaries. Such distribution shall not exceed the lower amount of undistributed after-tax profits reported in the separate financial statements and the consolidated financial statements.

19. Principles and method of recording selling expenses and general and administration expenses

Selling expenses: represent the actual costs incurred in the process of selling the Company's products and goods and providing services. Selling expenses include salaries of sales personnel and costs of materials and packaging.

General and administration expenses: represent general management costs incurred for the entire Company. General and administration expenses comprise management personnel costs (salaries, salary-related contributions and insurances); office supplies; tools and supplies; depreciation expenses of fixed assets used for management purposes; taxes, fees and duties (including business licence tax and land rental expenses that do not qualify for capitalisation); services bought from outsiders and other expenses paid by cash incurred by the office department.

Recognition principle: Selling expenses and general and administrative expenses are recognized in the Income Statement in accordance with the matching principle and the accrual basis of accounting at the time they are incurred, regardless of when the related cash payment is made. Expenses that are not considered deductible for corporate income tax purposes under the Corporate Income Tax Law, but are supported by valid accounting invoices and documentation, are nevertheless recognized in full as accounting expenses in the period in which they are incurred. Such expenses are subsequently adjusted and excluded in determining taxable income for corporate income tax purposes.

20. Principles and methods for the recognition of current corporate income tax expense and deferred corporate income tax expense

Corporate income tax expense includes current corporate income tax and deferred corporate income tax incurred during the year and set basis for determining operating result after tax in current fiscal year.

20. Principles and methods for the recognition of current corporate income tax expense and deferred corporate income tax expense (cont.)

Current income tax represents the amount of corporate income tax payable (or refundable) determined based on taxable income and the applicable corporate income tax rate for the year. Taxable income is determined based on accounting profit after adjusting for differences in accordance with the regulations on corporate income tax, including non-deductible expenses, tax-exempt or non-taxable income, tax losses carried forward in accordance with regulations and other adjustments.

The company has settled corporate income tax up to 2023.

The Company's tax obligations are declared and determined based on the prevailing tax regulations. Due to differences in the application and interpretation of tax regulations, the Company's tax filings may be subject to examination and reassessment by the tax authorities. Any differences (if any) between the tax amounts recognised and the amounts determined by the tax authorities' conclusions will be recognised in the financial statements in the period when official decisions or conclusions are issued by the tax authorities.
